iPECS Software Assurance

Up to date your business with the full value of iPECS solution

Among all the industries, the IT industry is one of the most swiftly changing. New features, functionalities and software for business collaborations are constantly appearing. As the market changes, maintaining the latest IT technologies has become more important than ever to protect a company's IT investment. Beyond just setting up-to-date features and functionalities, security patch updates are critical to reducing operational risks.

iPECS Software Assurance is the baseline offer of the support service, designed to maximize the value of iPECS solutions for effective business communications. With iPECS Software Assurance, up-to-date system features protect your investment and reduce operational risks.

Offerings

- Upgrade/updates with new features (Common features only)
- Enhancement of existing features
- Software patch updates

What you can get

Always staying up to date

You can conveniently cope with IT changes through subscribing to iPECS Software Assurance. It ensures that you are up-to-date with the latest iPECS software upgrades and updates. And it ensures that you can deliver the latest features and enhancements to your employees to increase productivity.

Higher Availability, Stability and Security

iPECS Software Assurance provides the latest patches reducing operational risk. The latest software includes bug fixes, security patches and updates to key features. It will make your business communications stable and secure. Ultimately, it guarantees that you maximize the performance of your business communications and your business continuity.

Protecting your investment iPECS Software Assurance protects your investments by delivering enhanced value for the products, including the latest features. While keeping your systems and applications current, you can achieve a positive ROI and maximize your employees' work efficiency.

Accessing new and improved functionalities iPECS Software Assurance gives you immediate access to newly released software without additional costs during the term of your agreement. With this access, you can easily obtain new and improved functionalities to accelerate the efficiency of your business communications at your own pace.

Enjoying new end-points and applications iPECS provides a wide-ranging product portfolio that includes systems, terminals and applications. Terminals and applications are constantly coming out in new or updated forms, similar to systems. However, these may not work on old versions of system software. With iPECS   Software Assurance, you can easily enjoy new end-points and applications through updating your system software without latency to improve the working environment.

Predictability on OPEX budget

As iPECS Software Assurance is available in packages from 1 to 5 years' duration, you can easily plan and predict your long-term OPEX budget. In accordance with the path your business takes, an advance, diverse six-year purchase plan is possible.

Focus on your core business

Quicker time to workplace for new features

Productivity

Quality of Service

Risk management

Cost saving

iPECS

Your Communications Solution